Dear Parents and Guardians,

I know the recent changes to your child's school program have created significant challenges to you and your families. The shift this week to a distance learning model was swift and unprecedented. I thank you for your cooperation and patience.

By now your child should be working on the instructional lessons and activities provided by the teachers and therapists. We have received questions about work completion. I want to assure you that our staff will continue to reach out to you and make any necessary adjustments to meet the needs of your child. Our goal is to provide continuity of learning without overwhelming your family.

We have also received questions regarding the availability of breakfast and lunch for students eligible for free or reduced meals. Over the past week, we contacted our sending districts to confirm the availability of daily meals for students enrolled in UCESC schools. I advise you to visit the website of your local school district to confirm the appropriate location to pick-up meals for your eligible child.

The most important question right now is how we can help you. In addition to our administrators, teachers and therapists, our dedicated team of social workers, guidance counselor, school nurses and behavior therapists are available and want to lend assistance. Please do not hesitate to use our staff as a resource and point of contact for additional assistance in your community.

Thank you for entrusting your child's education with us. We consider all of you our school family and will continue to support you through this very challenging time.

Sincerely,

Terry Foppert
